

The Unbelievably Average Life of the Third Person

The third person woke up at 9 a.m. that morning. Her glasses were on the table and her slippers were under the bed. She put her glasses and slippers on, and went to the kitchen. There was a fruit basket on the kitchen table with a bottle of water next to it and an empty cup between them. She took the cup and made herself coffee with the coffee machine in front of the oven. While she was sitting behind the table and drinking her coffee, she saw the clock on the wall and realized that she was late to work. She put the cup in the kitchen sink, went to her bedroom and got dressed in a hurry. When she left the house, she forgot her keys in the door.
